Dear Parishioners:

I hope you survived Tax Day on April 15th! The old adage that "the only things certain in this life are death and taxes" came to mind as I filed my Federal and Rhode Island Income Tax Returns last week!

The Catechism of the Catholic Church instructs us that: "submission to authority and co-responsibility for the common good make it morally obligatory to pay taxes..." (CCC No. 2240) So while some may bemoan the paying of taxes, we are obligated to pay them for the common good of our state and nation. In fact, the Catechism instructs us that it is a duty to pay our taxes. So it seems both God and Caesar want us to pay taxes!

Likewise, the state has obligations to its citizens like providing for the peace, harmony and needs of all citizens especially the disadvantaged. The Catechism also states: "Political authorities are obliged to respect the fundamental rights of the human person. They will dispense justice humanely by respecting the rights of everyone, especially of families and the disadvantaged." (CCC No. 2237)

So its clear that both citizens and state have duties and responsibilities. Each are called to provide for justice, solidarity, freedom, and peace. Yes, we have a duty to pay our taxes, but our government is obligated to provide necessary services like education, healthcare, social services, fire and police services, and upkeep of our infrastructure.

No doubt most of us claimed our charitable deductions on our income tax return. Giving to the Church and other worthwhile charities isn't only an important thing to do, it is also tax deductible. However, there is currently "tax reform" legislation pending in U.S. Congress that would eliminate all charitable deductions from the tax code. This would effect not only Churches but also universities and colleges and every other charity that depends upon voluntary donations. As you can imagine the charitable community and churches are actively opposing such "reform" as it could have a devastating effect upon financial support of these charities.

There is a common misconception that the Catholic Church pays no taxes. Some even believe that we priests also do not pay taxes. Well I can assure you that priests pay income taxes as I sent my return and check to both the U.S. Government and State of Rhode Island last week!

While the Catholic Church is tax exempt organization, priests are not. It is true that the Church pays no property taxes and this is true for all religious and non-profit groups not just the Catholics. This increasingly is a source of animus from many in our society especially atheist and secular humanist groups. They usually direct their vitriol to the Catholic Church whenever our bishops teach about a moral issue.

The customary cries of "separation of church and state" loudly shouted whenever the Church teaches about the sanctity of life and marriage or the dignity of the human person including even undocumented immigrants. Sadly these folks have misinterpreted the principle of separation of church and state and rather ironically they never seem to attack the many liberal Protestant Ministers who advocate for abortion on demand and the redefinition of marriage.

While the Catholic Church is a tax exempt organization there is no exemption from teaching the truth about human life, marriage and human dignity even in the public square. The separation of church and state is not meant to stifle the Church's prophetic voice but rather protect the Church from government intervention in their church.

Yes, death and taxes are certainties of every life but our lives are meant to be lived not hidden in fear in a room but alive with the faith and active in our society. Our Holy Father, Pope Francis reminded us of this in his Easter Message to the World: "Let us be renewed by God's mercy, let us be loved by Jesus, let us enable the power of his love to transform our lives too; and let us become agents of this mercy, channels through which God can water the earth, protect all creation and make justice and peace flourish." God Bless. Have a great week!

Father Healey

The Catechism Corner

Continuing our quest for the answer to the question, "Who EXACTLY rose Jesus from the dead??" this week in The Catechism Corner we look to the Eucharist for any helpful hints it may have. Surely, the Sacrament of the Body and Blood of Christ would be brought about by the power of Christ Himself--after all, it is HIS Body and Blood. If Christ could only take the lead in the race so far!! Remember, after considering Baptism and Confirmation, we still have a three-way tie for which Person of the Blessed Trinity brings about the graces of each particular Sacrament: Father -- 2; Son -- 2; Holy Spirit -- 2. In the Eucharist, it would seem that it is Christ Himself who is the chief author of the graces since the priest acts in persona Christi "in the person of Christ". The priest says the same exact words that Jesus did at the Last Supper. These words of the consecration change the bread and wine into the Body and Blood of Christ. So now all we need to do is to find a paragraph in the Catechism which says that Christ alone is responsible for the Eucharist. Let's see...here it is: "In the institution narrative, the power of the words and the action of Christ [that's what we wanted to hear] , and the power of the Holy Spirit [ooops, He's included as well], make sacramentally present under the species of bread and wine Christ's body and blood, his sacrifice offered on the cross once for all." Well, that's not a complete loss in the sense that at least now the Holy Spirit and Jesus are tied for first place with three votes each leaving the Father behind with only two. Oh, but there's more. "In the epiclesis [when the priest extends his hands over the gifts on the altar], the Church asks the Father to send his Holy Spirit (or the power of his blessing) on the bread and wine, so that by his power they may become the body and blood of Jesus Christ and so that those who take part in the Eucharist may be one body and one spirit." Well, now the Father has tied it up again. It just seems that each of the Sacraments we have considered thus far (Baptism, Confirmation, Eucharist) are each brought about by the work of the entire Trinity. In the Eucharist, for example, it is the priest in the celebration of the Mass who turns to the Father and asks Him to send down the Holy Spirit so that when he speaks the words of Jesus, the bread and wine may be transubstantiated in the Body and Blood of Christ. It doesn't seem possible for it to work without all three persons of the Trinity sharing in the work of the Sacrament itself. So that means that the score remains the same with: Father -- 3; Son -- 3; Holy Spirit -- 3. Next week, we'll look at Confession to see if maybe someone could pull out ahead and finally answer the question of "Who EXACTLY rose Jesus from the dead??" Read ahead for next week if you want or just review the section for today by checking it out in the Catechism of the Catholic Church #1353.

4th Sunday of Easter

Chapter ten of the Gospel of John presents the image of Christ as Good Shepherd, the charismatic and powerful leader willing to lay down his life for the salvation of the flock.

Some part of this Scripture is read every year on the Fourth Sunday of Easter.

This Sunday gives us an excellent context in which to offer special prayers for vocations to ministry, especially to ordained ministry. The flock is still, and will always be, in need of good shepherds.
